Honda Indy Grand Prix of Alabama Sells Out Sunday Race Tickets remain for purchase for Friday and Saturday

Birmingham, Ala (April 10, 2021) — The 2021 Honda Indy Grand Prix of Alabama has sold out of tickets for Sunday, April 18. Sunday’s main event is the IndyCar series race which will be broadcasted on NBC network TV.

Onsite attendance capacity for 2021 is capped at 20,000 attendees. This figure includes total tickets and credentials distributed to the general public, sponsors, vendors, race personnel and volunteers. This is approximately 50% of a typical Sunday’s attendance. Attendance this year has been limited due to COVID-19 safety precautions. The attendance limitations combined with the spacious Barber Motorsports Park will allow fans to safely enjoy the event’s festivities.

Daily general admission tickets remain for both Friday and Saturday but are selling fast. Fans are encouraged to act quickly and purchase their tickets online at barberracingevents.com. Ticket prices are $20 (Friday) and $35 (Saturday). All tickets include free onsite parking and kids under 15 receive free admission. All onsite camping is also sold out.

“We are very pleased by the positive response we’ve received for this year’s event”, stated Gene Hallman, CEO of ZOOM Motorsports, the exclusive event promoter of Barber Motorsports Park. “Race fans are eager to return to attending live events and we are honored to be the inaugural event on the Indycar 2021 calendar. We look forward to hosting the Indycar debut of legendary NASCAR driver Jimmie Johnson and F1’s Romain Grosjean. A large part of our success is due to Barber Motorsports Park which has become a bucket list item for many race fans. This beautiful facility is considered to be among the finest road courses in the world.”

The Barber Vintage Motorsports Museum will have extended hours for race weekend, 8am – 6pm. The Barber Vintage Motorsports Museum is recognized by Guinness World Records as the world’s largest motorcycle collection. It is also home to the world’s largest collection of Lotus race cars.

Spectator protocols will include mandatory wearing of face masks, social distancing protocol and cashless retail transactions. There will be no access to the garage area due to COVID-19 safety protocols.
